- filled Order is complete
- unfilled Order has not been assigned to a vendor or researcher (generally not used in the XML interface)
- in progress Some results or status information may have been returned, but the order is not complete. This status code may be used when you place status text in a report that is not yet complete. For example, "Records ordered, ETA 8/12" or "Must verify with Susan Delacruz, who is on vacation until the 5th".
- failed The order was not able to be completed and has been abandoned.

9.5   Call History Format

Many of the postResults Blocks may contain a call history. The call history is comprised of one or more "call" nodes within the block. The call nodes are not contained in another element within the block. In versions prior to Accio XML 3.14, if any call nodes were present within the block, the entire call history attached to the order would be erased and be replaced with the call history found in the postResults block. However, since Accio XML 3.14, call history entries are never erased. A checksum is calculated on the contents of each call history entry, and call history entries that do not have matching checksums with call history entries already attached to the order are considered
